“Sustainable Future in the Post Pandemic Era: Life Skills as Strategic Enablers”

4 – 6 November 2022

at Rajdhani College, University of Delhi

Raja Garden, Mahatma Gandhi Marg, New Delhi 110015

The International Conference on ‘Sustainable Future in the Post Pandemic Era: Life Skills as Strategic Enablers’ is an initiative of Indian Association of Life Skills Education (IALSE), as part of its yearly flagship program-international conference and we are proud to share that 2022 is the year of its 9th international conference, which we started during 2013. Each year IALSE organises its conferences on diverse topics of relevance.

This conference is a three- day event slated from 4th to 6th November 2022, in collaboration with UNFPA and jointly organised by Rajdhani College, the Urvi Vikram National Centre for Adolescents, New Delhi and International Hindu University (IHU), Florida, USA. Indian Association of Life Skills Education from its existence from 2010, creates a platform where officials, academicians, professionals, researchers, policy makers, functionaries and like-minded people, interact, discuss, and thereby promote and strengthen Life Skills Education through an inter-disciplinary and trans-disciplinary approach.

Backdrop

The last two years have been a period of great upheaval in all spheres of human life. The pandemic and the ensuing changes that swept the world have left a lasting impact on people as well as the planet. As societies around the world are slowly finding their way to recovery, there is a need to reflect and build on the experiences from the past, so as to plan for a safe future. Some of the key challenges that resonate worldwide are worth highlighting. The pandemic has emphasised the need for a healthcare system capable of delivering benefits to all, including the developed, the developing and the less developed nations to ensure complete recovery from it, as well as to protect against future ones. The education sector has also had its share of impact, as education went virtual during the pandemic. The digital divide led to the underprivileged facing tremendous learning loss and the existing inequalities in gender came to the forefront more so during this time. This has impacted economic growth, sustainability criteria and development process which has caused a major setback to daily functioning and progress of the nations. As a whole, as the world faces these challenges, efforts to surmount them must also be global in nature. The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has cautioned that societies need to plan for policies which will “reduce the likelihood of future shocks and increase society’s resilience to them when they do occur” (OECD, 2020). Thus, the global effort in the post pandemic era is now focused on resilient recovery from the pandemic situation and planning for a sustainable future. Therefore, there is a strong need to consider all the three dimensions of sustainability, viz the social, economic and environmental in efforts to minimize, control and offset the damage caused by the devastating pandemic.

Declaration of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) was an effort from UN to ensure a life with dignity and respect and keeping in mind the sustainable future of people, planet, prosperity, peace and partnership. The agenda includes 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and 169 targets to be achieved by 2030. The fundamental principle for the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) is capacity building of all citizens for development by providing appropriate skills, values and attitudes and adequate knowledge. The COVID- 19 pandemic has retarded the progress in achieving the SDGs at the desired level across the globe. A renewed effort at all level is required to realise the goals as anticipated.

Now, having entered the ‘Decade of Action’, countries are examining the progress made so far in the light of the SDG framework. The need for India to achieve these targets remains imperative. Two editions of the SDG India Index & Dashboard launched in 2018 & 19, have helped identify issues and areas that need improvement along with mapping on what are the best strategies and interventions required to move ahead. ‘Partnership’ as an idea and practice has been adopted as the main theme as per the SDG India Index Report & Dashboard 2020-21. The National Policy on Education (NEP 2020) also envisions aligning the new proposed system of education with the SDGs especially SDG4 on Quality Education.

Considering this backdrop and mulling over the importance and working towards achieving a resilient recovery and sustainable futures, a purposive deliberation in this direction is incomplete without a discussion on the role of life skills. A strong dyadic relation between the ‘individual’ and ‘action’, fuelled by conscious practice of life skills would lead to positive and sustainable behaviour change, nurturing psycho-social competencies in the individuals for a recovery from the Covid-19 pandemic, and sustainable futures. This aligns with the OECD approach focusing on well-being and inclusiveness as key dimensions for ‘building back better’ (OECD, 2020).

About the Conference

This conference focuses on the connection between life skills as the key drivers for capacity building for a proactive, positive recovery in the post pandemic era, towards ensuring a green future.
